THE ORPHAN GIRL'S PRAYER.
Let me go to my home—I am weary of earth,
Not a friend have I left in the land of my birth;
Let me go where the bright waters gleam, as they flow
With the songs of the angels—O, their home go.
Let me go to my Father—I remember the day,
When he bled for me as they bore him away;
And I watched for his coming, when the angels
Gleam'd low.
But he came to me now—to him let me go.
Let me go to my Mother—she calls me no away
To the tower that is green with the garlands of May;
And I know that her heart doth with love overflow
For the last of her household—to her let me go.
Let me go to my Sister—I'm fond like her too,
And I long to be laid in the grave by her side;
I've been taught in my heart since they laid him so low
Earth's last tie was broken—to him let me go.
Let me go to my home—as the lone mountain rises
To a steeper cliff when the black winds are high;
Let me go where the bright waters gleam, as they flow
With the songs of the angels—O, their let me go!

THE CHRISTIAN'S HOPE.
There is a hope that will not fade,
It is of heavenly mould,
Unshaken, cast within the vale;
An anchor to the soul,
Often its clear transcending rays,
Shed over the troubled mind,
Makes us forget the woes of earth,
And peace and comfort find.
A lesson-light, when all is dark,
And roiling billows roar;
While all around our trembling bark
Yawns a devouring grave.
How cheerfully its glowing beams
Steals through the dusky sky,
How welcome its radiant streams
On the uplifted eye.
Why then so foolishly repine,
When earthly hopes decay,
For still the Christian's hope is mine,
When all others pass away.

A Difficult Question Answered.
"Can anybody tell why, when Eve was made from one of Adam's ribs, a hired girl wasn't made at the same time to wait on her?"
We can, say! Because Adam never came willing to Eve with a ragged stocking to be darned, a collar-string to be sewed on, or a glove to be mended—right away, quick now? Because he never read the newspaper, until the sun got down behind the palm-trees, and then stretching himself, yawning out, "Ain't supper ready, my dear?" Not he. He made the fire and hung over the tea kettle himself, we'll venture, and pulled the radishes, and peeled the bananas, and did every thing else that he'd ought to! He milked the cows, and fed the chickens, and looked after the pigs himself. He never brought home half a dozen friends to dinner, when Eve hadn't any fresh pomegranates and the mango season was over! He never stayed out until eleven o'clock to a "ward-meeting," hurling for the out-and-out candidate, and then scolded because poor dear Eve was sitting up and crying inside the gates. To be sure he acted rather cowardly about apple-gathering time, but then, that don't depreciate his general helpfulness about the garden! He never played billiards, nor drove fast horses, nor smoked Eve with cigar smoke. He never loafed around corner groceries while solitary Eve was rocking little Cain's cradle at home. In short, he didn't think she was specially created for the purpose of waiting on him, and wasn't under the impression that it disgraced a man to lighten his wife's care a little.
That's the reason that Eve did not need a hired girl, and we wish it was the reason that none of her fair descendants did!

Something New in the Scientific World.
We copy the following interesting article from the New Orleans Picayune. It is from the pen of their New York Correspondent, "Walter Clyde":
A certain Dr. Benjamin Hardinge, a man of original mind, a careful, truthful, and never tiring student of nature, has spent the last fifteen years in his laboratory in "liquidizing quartz rock, and combining it again in new and varied forms. Dissolving quartz, or silica, with an excess of alkali, is nothing new in chemistry, but to do it with the silica very greatly in excess over the alkali, and in large quantities, and at small expense, has been one of the greatest studies of chemistry for the past quarter of a century. This Dr. Hardinge has surely accomplished, for I have seen three thousand gallons of this liquid at one time, and in the thinnest strata of two hours, and at an expense nearly nominal. The capacity of this monster machine is six thousand gallons, and it can digest twelve tons of quartz, or flint rock in twenty-four hours, and convert it into the waters of crystallization. Here, then, you have the basis for the wildest speculations. Your readers are perhaps aware that a very large portion of our globe is of just this material, either in the form of sand, rock or other siliceous substances. By chemical combinations Dr. Hardinge makes an article of plastic marble purer than the purest Parian! It can be made of any color, by mixing with the various metallic oxides. Every article of marble work may thus be cast as perfectly as casting of metal now are, and copies of Corinthian pilasters, statues, marbles, &c., can be furnished at an expense of probably one per cent. of their present cost. By a proper combination with ordinary sand or marble, a stone is made harder than the hardest flint, and at a price far less than the cheapest brick. Your parlors may be frescoed in marble, and time will never injure the colors. This is undoubtedly, the stone process used in the catcombs of Egypt, the colors of which are as fresh as

THE JAPANESE EMBASSY.
WASHINGTON, May 14.—After the transfer of the light baggage boxes of money and other articles to the Philadelphia, the Japanese, with the exception of the Ambassador, came on board. Shortly after all the commissioned officers from Fort Monroe and the yards of the Ranauke were landed, when a boat with the Ambassador, left the Ranauke amid the roar of 17 guns. They were received on board the Philadelphia by Capt. Dupont and Mr. Ledyard, and shown to their respective state-rooms. The reception and dinner on board the Philadelphia was a superb affair. The game, fish, vegetables, cream, jellies, wines, &c., were produced by the Japanese to be well suited to their appetites, of which they gave ample evidence. The Philadelphia left the moorings of the Ranauke at 4 15 p.m., and landed her freight at Old Point at 4 25 a.m. The Japanese were received with formal honours, including a salute from the battery and music by the band. The Ambassadors were escorted around the parapet, their artists sketching out the line views of almost everything inside, as well as the roads and shipping outside with astonishing rapidity. The officers at the port prepared a basty table of refreshments at a hotel, and re-embarked at six with the same honours as at the landing. The Ambassadors and attendants were delighted with everything, and nothing was omitted or left out of sight of the naval commissioners' guests, or officers of the boat, tending to satisfy their curiosity, appetites, or comforts; nor did the least accident, incident, or omission occur in interfering with the programme of arrangements, or marred the pleasure of the distinguished visitors.

A Sabbath School Incident.
At a meeting in Exeter Hall, London, where there was a vast number of Sabbath school children assembled, a clergyman arose on the platform, and told of two bad little boys whom he had once known, and of a good little girl whom he afterwards learned to know. This little girl had been to Sabbath School, where she had learned "to do some good every day." Seeing two little boys quarrelling, she went up to them, told them how wickedly they were acting, made them desist from quarrelling and, in the end, induced them to attend Sunday school. These boys were Jim and Tom.
"Now, children," said the gentleman, "would you like to see Jim?"
All shouted with one voice, "Yes! yes!"
"Jim got up!" said the gentleman, looking once to another part of the stage. A R.V. looking missionary rose and looked smilingly upon the children.
"Now, would you like to see Tom?"
"Yes! yes!" resounded through all the house.
"Well, look at me—I am Tom, and I too have been a missionary for many years. Now would you like to see little Mary Wood?"
"The response" was even more loud and earnest than before, "Yes!"
"Well, do you see that lady over there in the blue silk bonnet—that is little Mary Wood—and she is my wife!"

Parliamentary.
Legislative Assembly.
Quebec, May 18.
After routine business, the House, on motion of the Premier, seconded by Mr. Brown, adopted the draft of the address to the Prince of Wales on the occasion of his visit to Canada, and it was voted that the same should be presented by the Speaker, flanked by each member of the House as might please the House.
Mr. Galt moved that the House go into committee of the whole on the following resolution:—That an humble address be presented to His Excellency the Governor General, praying that he will be pleased to authorize the expenditure that may be required in connection with the approaching visit of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and assuring His Excellency that this House at the next session of Parliament will make good the same.
Mr. Brown moved in amendment that it be an instruction to the committee to limit the sum to be placed at the disposal of the Government, for the same purpose.
The amendment was lost on a division; and the House went into committee and adopted the resolution.
The following bills were read a third time and passed:—
To incorporate the Acts respecting municipalities and roads in Upper Canada.
To legalize certain proceedings by road inspectors and overseers respecting registry offices and privileges and hypotheses in Lower Canada.
To separate the counties of Northumberland and Durham.
For quieting titles to real estate in Upper Canada, and to extend the jurisdiction of County Courts.
The following bills were read a second time:—
To provide for the foreclosure of mortgaged debentures beyond a certain amount; to facilitate the damage of lands in Canada; to extend certain provisions of the consolidated assessment of Upper Canada to cities; for the suppression of intemperance; to provide for the more general adoption of the practice of vaccination.

Legislative Council.
Quebec, May 18.
At the first sitting to-day the following bills were read a third time and passed:—
To restrain the issue of licenses for the sale of intoxicating liquors.
Respecting Indian lands in Dunbar.
To authorize the erection of a bridge over the river Nicolet.
To amend the Act respecting the territorial Division of Upper Canada and respecting the judicial incorporation of Joint Stock Companies.
The Supply bill was read a second time.
On motion for the third reading.
Hon. Mr. Alexander moved in amendment that, in opinion of this House, it is inexpedient taking into consideration the heavy charges on the consolidated revenue of the Province, to abolish tolls on merchant vessels plying on the Provincial canals.
The amendment was ruled out of order; and after some discussion the bill was read a third time and passed.
To amend the Act relating to the incorporation of the town of Dundas.
Respecting the Niagara and Detroit Rivers Railway Company.
Further to protect timber in forests in Lower Canada.
Finally to abolish certain feudal rights and duties.
After a short discussion, the bill relating to the establishment of a superannuation and annuity fund for civil servants of the Crown, was passed.

Getting Along.
There are two ways of getting through the world. Some men have the knack of "getting along," while others "work their way." The man who gets along, is always devising some expedient by which to shirk the primal curse—or blessing—of labor. He starts a "gift lottery," or exhibits a fat hog to the gaping populace at twelve and a half cents per head. He invents a quick medicine, warranted to cure "all the ills that flesh is heir to," and gets a minister to endorse it; he advertises "five hundred receipts for making a fortune in less than no time," offering them to the gullible public at the extraordinary price of one dollar, post paid; he turns politician, and is rewarded with a counsellorship to the Fejee Islands. He is always changing the object of his pursuit; now running in one direction, and now another, and this he calls "getting along!"

Getting Along.
The man who "works his way in the world," chooses the business of life with careful reference to his taste and capacities, and then steadily sticks to it. He becomes master of one string, and draws from it such melody as soothes him in the darkest hours. If he does not grow rich, he becomes respected and honored. His perseverance is counted unto him as a virtue, and men say he is "one of the old standards." He sticks to his business, and business sticks to him. What it brings him he knows how to value and enjoy, for he has earned it. He has his "ups and downs," but they are only the undulations which carry him steadily over the waves of life's ocean. With continued practice comes skill—and that is what is demanded. So he "works his way" upward, and is known as a "rising man." But he does not go up like a rocket, to come down like its stick. His progress is gradual, but sure, for he "works his way." He lays a foundation for every upward step. He resolves his powers, and is happy in the exercise. He fulfils the object of his being in accordance with the laws of nature, for all things in nature "work their way."

Getting Along.
The man who is "getting along" may get rich, but his life is a mere failure—a mere make-shift. His riches may be admired, but he is seldom respected. Most often he gets along to the work-house. He who would not work for himself is at last obliged to work for others.
There is a knack in "getting along," but the true art of life consists in "working your way." Young men, concentrate your powers. Diffusion is the great evil of life. Become master of your business, and you are master of other men. For he who by application and perseverance, acquires facility and aptitude, is always in demand, and is bound to succeed.

The Ambassadors were escorted around the parapet, their artists sketching out the line views of almost everything inside, as well as the roads and shipping outside with astonishing rapidity. The officers at the port prepared a basty table of refreshments at a hotel, and re-embarked at six with the same honours as at the landing. The Ambassadors and attendants were delighted with everything, and nothing was omitted or left out of sight of the naval commissioners' guests, or officers of the boat, tending to satisfy their curiosity, appetites, or comforts; nor did the least accident, incident, or omission occur in interfering with the programme of arrangements, or marred the pleasure of the distinguished visitors.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—After the transfer of the light baggage boxes of money and other articles to the Philadelphia, the Japanese, with the exception of the Ambassador, came on board. Shortly after all the commissioned officers from Fort Monroe and the yards of the Ranauke were landed, when a boat with the Ambassador, left the Ranauke amid the roar of 17 guns. They were received on board the Philadelphia by Capt. Dupont and Mr. Ledyard, and shown to their respective state-rooms. The reception and dinner on board the Philadelphia was a superb affair. The game, fish, vegetables, cream, jellies, wines, &c., were produced by the Japanese to be well suited to their appetites, of which they gave ample evidence. The Philadelphia left the moorings of the Ranauke at 4 15 p.m., and landed her freight at Old Point at 4 25 a.m. The Japanese were received with formal honours, including a salute from the battery and music by the band.
